

21 December 2017 22:37

<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2017/dec/21/trump-wall-golf-course-doonbeg-ireland#comment-110027821>

Since I am a non-golfer, I looked up the word mulligan on google, here is the relevant part for all you other non-golfers, (you can look up most words on google and get a customised answer, e.g. google "mulligan meaning")

"(in informal golf) an extra stroke allowed after a poor shot, not counted on the scorecard."

Best Regards,

/Per

21 December 2017 20:36

<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2017/dec/21/trump-wall-golf-course-doonbeg-ireland#comments>

He cheats, and drives golf carts on the green!

<http://www.golf.com/tour-news/2017/08/02/six-things-we-learned-golfs-depth-look-first-golfer-president-trump>

Best Regards,

/Per

21 December 2017 19:30

<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2017/dec/21/trump-wall-golf-course-doonbeg-ireland#comments>

Trump is obviously very engaged in golf. A google search reveals he has 3 in handicapp. Is this true?

Best Regards,

/Per

20 December 2017 22:03

<https://www.theguardian.com/us-news/2017/dec/20/republicans-plan-celebration-with-trump-after-house-passes-tax-bill-again#comments>

I need strenght. How about a first aid kit, right now. Youtube "first aid kit lion's roar". Gives me hope that things can change. If I did not know that they were Swedish, I would think they were American, since they sing in a very American accent.

Best Regards,

/Per

20 December 2017 21:19

<https://www.theguardian.com/us-news/2017/dec/20/republicans-plan-celebration-with-trump-after-house-passes-tax-bill-again#comments>

I feel sad, melancholy. Youtube "utanmyra", a lyricless sad jazzsong that expresses my emotions. I am going to be a better person.

Best Regards,

/Per

20 December 2017 20:35

<https://www.theguardian.com/us-news/2017/dec/20/republicans-plan-celebration-with-trump-after-house-passes-tax-bill-again#comments>

youtube "the winner takes it all abba"

It is actually a sad song (same as to the state of the political affairs in the USA). In that video Agnetha looks more pretty and sexy than I have ever seen her.

Best Regards,

20 December 2017 05:37

<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2017/dec/20/toilet-brush-anger-rome-city-lacklustre-christmas-tree#comments>

The issue with the transport cost comes from poor decision making. To rule with emphasis of emotions is a very bad way. You have heard it before, "Be yourself", "Do not think too much, be natural" "Emotional quota". All this is very bad for a ruler. It means you can be easily manipulated by lies. We all lose if the leaders rule by emotion. This is a clear example of it.

Best Regards,

/Per

20 December 2017 03:23

<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2017/dec/20/toilet-brush-anger-rome-city-lacklustre-christmas-tree#comments>

Italy, such a lovely feminist country. Why feminist?

1. Look at the map, it looks like a leg of a high heeled lady stumbling over a rock, or kicking a rock.
2. Italians are emotional, just like women are.
3. Italy is Italia in Italian, and names ending with an "a" are usually feminin.

Best Regards,

/Per

20 December 2017 03:10

<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2017/dec/20/toilet-brush-anger-rome-city-lacklustre-christmas-tree#comments>

If I see that my comment gets upticked, I will uptick yours.

Best Regards,

/Per

20 December 2017 02:23

<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2017/dec/20/toilet-brush-anger-rome-city-lacklustre-christmas-tree#comments>

Speaking of toilet brushes, the following comment was made on a large commercial Internet sell site (according to Daily Mail)

Agony

I do not know how this thing is catching on. But I found it quite agonising and disgusting to use. Call me oldfashioned, but I think I will stick with toilet paper.

Best Regards,

/Per

19 December 2017 15:18

<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2017/dec/19/neo-nazis-hatred-comedy-racist-daily-stormer#comments>

Play a non-racist card game instead. There is a card game called "Peer" that is against prejudice of race, religion, gender and sexual orientation. The key to the game is Peer, you cooperate to win. Available at lotta.website if you forget the rules. Here are the rules, (you can modify them as you like, e.g. 26 turns, 3 cards each if many)

The Card Game Peer

52 Regular Cards

0-3 Jokers

The deck is shuffled. All cards are placed on the table face down. You are allowed to talk as much as you want. A Joker is a bad card. If you are left with a Joker in your hand at the end of the game you automatically lose.

The object of the game is to left with a hand of 5 cards with the highest straight (highest straight counts higher than lower straight flush) or straight flush (always higher valued than just straight of the same sequence). The flush (if there are many same straight flushes) are scored according to,

1. Hearts
2. Clubs
3. Diamonds
4. Spades

If there are no straights of all 5 cards at the end, the one with the longest sequence wins, if there is a tie between number of cards in sequence, then the highest sequence wins, if there is a tie of highest sequence, then the the one with the highest flush (same colour of the sequence) wins, otherwise the highest colour of the top card of sequence wins. (sequence counts as a sequence of 1-5 cards)

Cards are valued according to 14 Ace (highest)

13 King

12 Queen

11 Jack

10 10

9 9

8 8

7 7

6 6

5 5

4 4

3 3

2 2

1 Ace (lowest)

In the begging all players pick five cards from the table. Then a first player is chosen. The first player can now replace a card (but doesn't have to, he or she can always choose to keep the cards he or she has without replacing when it is his or her turn; he or she can resume replacing of cards at any moment when it is his or her turn, until the game ends), face down, lay one card from his/her hand on the table face down and then pick another card up. He can say (truth or bluff) what the card is, but not show. Any player can say (truth or bluff) what cards they have on hand, but not show. This continues to the next player clockwise. The game is a little like the game of memory, you have to remember what other people have said their cards are that lay on the table. Some people want to build up confidence of honesty, others want to fool others.

At the end of each turn, as the card has been placed face down and a new one picked up, the player can choose to trade once with any other player. The trade is showing what the card laying on the table actually is. The card just laid down can be shown to any other person (only) and this person can in return point to any card on the table to be shown (only) to the current player.

At 10, 20, 30, 40th turn every player have the option to steal one card from anyone other player, once, instead of picking up a card on the table (first place card, then steal, the steal victim pics a card from the table after the steal), that does not show that they have a joker on hand (then that one is immune from being a stealing victim).

The game is over when each player has had 52 turns, or if all players pass once in turn. Keep a note on paper to keep track.

Best Regards,

/Per

15 December 2017 17:18

<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2017/dec/15/theresa-eu-leaders-soft-brexite-rebels-brussels#comment-109764494>

The lesson here is that sometimes you have to agree on a deal. Theresa has a difficult time. You think that the issue is Brexit. The real issue is not ending up in Hell after you die. I am confident that there is an afterlife. This life is a preparation for values that hold for that afterlife, for an eternity. As Chris Rea said in his song "Road to Hell", you have to learn this lesson fast and learn it well. I have had many dreams from Heaven. Therefore I know that all is about power. In Heaven they have a Hell. People, to get into prominent positions, had to send innocent to Hell, so that they would be guilty. Then they used that fact on those people as a hook. If the good side won, then they knew that they would be sentenced to Hell forever, because of their guilt, so they worked for the evil side in their position of power. Very smart. It is no game. I know from my dreams that Brexit is on the good side.

Best Regards,

/Per

15 December 2017 14:46

<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2017/dec/15/brexit-vote-commons-second-referendum#comments>

Each page takes about 1 minute to read, normal pace.

Best Regards,

/Per

15 December 2017 14:29

<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2017/dec/15/brexit-vote-commons-second-referendum#comments>

Do you dare to put your theory to the test?

1. Read all my history of comments.
2. See the guardian documentary "Killing Gävle" on the frontpage of todays issue.
3. If the Yule Goat burns before Christmas Eve (24 December 00:00 CET) you're right, else stronger and stronger.

Best Regards,
/Per

15 December 2017 01:12

<https://www.theguardian.com/technology/2017/dec/14/net-neutrality-fcc-rules-open-internet#comment-109729920>

Just speculating. Imagine the ISP-providers made a deal with the republicans. The deal was: "If you scap net neutrality, then we will block pro democratic sites in 2018 and 2020 elections, so that you can continue have power."

Best Regards,
/Per

15 December 2017 00:09

<https://www.theguardian.com/science/2017/dec/14/is-oumuamua-an-alien-spacecraft-first-scans-show-no-signs-of-technology#comment-109728766>

I am worried. Maybe the aliens have watched our TV broadcasts, and been impressed by TV-shows of magicians. There are many such shows. We think it is all natural tricks, but they really believed magicians can do real magic.

They are after the magicians. They will torture them to come after the magicians "technology".

Scary times.

Best Regards,
/Per

14 December 2017 23:00

<https://www.theguardian.com/technology/2017/dec/14/net-neutrality-fcc-rules-open-internet#comments>

Yeah, lets deregulate the private manufacture and sale of hydrogen bombs.

NOTE: IRONY

irony n 1 use of words which are clearly opposite to one's meaning, usu. with an amusing purpose (as by saying "This is beautiful weather" when the weather is bad) 2 a course of events or a condition which has the opposite result from what is expected, usu. a bad result: life's little ironies (s: LONGMAN DICTIONARY OF CONTEMPORARY ENGLISH)

Best Regards,
/Per

14 December 2017 22:41

<https://www.theguardian.com/technology/2017/dec/14/net-neutrality-fcc-rules-open-internet#comment-109726706>

See what happens when power is concentrated?
And you guys praise the soon to be (according to Schulz in Germany) USE.

Best Regards,
/Per

14 December 2017 22:18

<https://www.theguardian.com/technology/2017/dec/14/net-neutrality-fcc-rules-open-internet#comment-109726018>

Well you could express your opinion on the internet, couldn't you?
Could you do that as easy in traditional media?
Internet could transform African poverty to wealth through easy and cheap access to relevant information.
If you do not like others opinions, argue against them, if they are not worthy comments then they will not stand open and free critique.

Best Regards,
/Per

14 December 2017 21:50

<https://www.theguardian.com/technology/2017/dec/14/net-neutrality-fcc-rules-open-internet#comment-109725118>

You are a candle that probably never should be lit. A candle that is very expensive should probably never be lit, like a candle that is 2000 years old.

Best Regards,
/Per

14 December 2017 19:46

<https://www.theguardian.com/politics/2017/dec/14/david-davis-bright-eyed-and-bushy-tailed-after-brexit-defeat-yeah-right#comments>

Well what I think Shakespeare wanted to say was that if you demand hard rules, such that a contract will be honoured regardless how cruel, those hard rules can work against you too. If you got a smart lawyer.

Best Regards,

/Per

14 December 2017 17:46

<https://www.theguardian.com/politics/2017/dec/14/david-davis-bright-eyed-and-bushy-tailed-after-brexit-defeat-yeah-right#comments>

I think that the rebel Tory commons vote was wonderful thing. More power to the parliament. More democratic than just the government.

By the way, when you talk to friends at the pub, refer to the guardian and possibly its comments.

Show guardian text on your phone to your friends at the pub.

The Daily Mail has 240 m unique visitors a month. The guardian 170 m. Let us beat them!

Best Regards,

/Pe

14 December 2017 17:20

<https://www.theguardian.com/inequality/2017/dec/14/world-richest-increased-wealth-same-amount-as-poorest-half#comments>

Let me rephrase the last sentence.

If you are stupid, clumsy OR unlucky, crime does not pay, in fact you will be sentenced.

If you are smart, careful AND lucky, crime pays.

Best Regards,

/Per

14 December 2017 16:38

<https://www.theguardian.com/inequality/2017/dec/14/world-richest-increased-wealth-same-amount-as-poorest-half#comments>

Quote you "In reality, how much people have is actually an irrelevance. "

I disagree. Money + intelligence = power. If you have money and intelligence you can gather intelligence on the internet and elsewhere and get an informational advantage. Then you can pay hit men to do the dirty work. To keep threats away and you and your cronies at the top.

If some people have disproportionate amount of wealth and therefore power, that is the same thing as a dictatorship, even though we live in a democracy. If you bribe the police, the judges and jury enough, you can get away with anything. Crime pays, you know, and so do the rich.

Best Regards,

/Per

14 December 2017 16:22

<https://www.theguardian.com/inequality/2017/dec/14/world-richest-increased-wealth-same-amount-as-poorest-half#comments>

You need to think longer than your reach of your nose.

You need to imagine what a future world look like.

Not too difficult.

In ten years strong Artificial Intelligence (AI) will have been developed. Imagine AI doing the work of programmers in the future. You talk to your AI what you want programmed, the AI ask questions, you answer them, and then the AI goes to work. In a short time the AI presents the finished work.

You point out design improvements to your taste.

Imagine AI in the same way doing scientific research, accounting, management, engineering, physician advice, architect work, well list goes on for the service industry.

Robots building cars, buses, weapons, houses, doing farming etc.

Do you not see that in the future, all is about wealth distribution.

Best Regards,

/Per

14 December 2017 13:58

<https://www.theguardian.com/inequality/2017/dec/14/world-richest-increased-wealth-same-amount-as-poorest-half#comments>

We, the gullible masses, are indeed fools. The rich are smart. They know they can influence politics, buy keeping political interest out of the masses (by making them happy consumers, for a while, until it is too late), and "talking" the politicians right.

The wealthy want a globalist world. That way they can influence politics to the maximum. One world government that are puppets to the rich. Their dream.

Nationalism and socialism is the anti-dote. The phrase "national socialism" is tainted by the Nazis forever. Therefore we should call ourselves Patriotic Socialists, PS.

Best Regards,

/Per

13 December 2017 23:26

<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2017/dec/13/labour-brexite-position-tories#comments>

As we speak of power and democracy, let me have an opinion of proportional representation versus first past the post system.

I really think Britain should have proportional representation, just like Sweden and Germany, for instance.

The reason is that power corrupts. Business money tries always to influence politics and the legislation. If you only have two viable parties that can win, then it is much easier to conserve corrupt parties, since no new parties will establish easily. A new party formed in Germany April 2013 and got 13 percent this year's election. Although I do not like that particular party, it proves the point that new parties that are not corrupt can form and grow out the established parties.

This will cause eventually that the new uncorrupt party will gain power, or forcing established parties to be less corrupt, since they feel the political competition.

Best Regards,

/Per

13 December 2017 22:54

<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2017/dec/13/labour-brexite-position-tories#comments>

If Boris implements a deregulated tax haven, post Brexit, Labour should thank him. People will vote for Labour for a long time to come.

Real nationalists want friendly relations with other nationalists of other nations. They respect each other as long as they are mutually respectful.

Best Regards,

/Per

13 December 2017 22:19

<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2017/dec/13/labour-brexite-position-tories#comments>

Leftism is all about acting against power concentration, whether financial power or political power. The EU is a construct to concentrate power, financial as well as political. They work long term. Do you not see that? All is about power, have you not figured out that simple fact yet.

Nationalism is all about devolution of power. Nazis are not nationalists and have never been. Hitler did not respect other nations or their nationalistic movements. Hitler wanted a globalized world with them at the top.

The world divided into independent nations allow the people to manage power through elections, in democratic nations. Unions manage devolution of financial power.

Best Regards,

/Per

13 December 2017 19:15

<https://www.theguardian.com/artanddesign/2017/dec/13/big-nosed-jesus-and-god-as-a-second-rate-santa-the-worst-christian-art-navid-kermani-wonder-beyond-belief#comments>

What the Nazi regime in the 1930s and 1940s taught the world is that racism and antipathy towards other religions can turn very ugly if you are a minority. You have to be on the watch for this in the future, since human nature has not changed fundamentally. It is no game.

Best Regards,

/Per

13 December 2017 16:09

<https://www.theguardian.com/artanddesign/2017/dec/13/big-nosed-jesus-and-god-as-a-second-rate-santa-the-worst-christian-art-navid-kermani-wonder-beyond-belief#comments>

The overwhelming majority of Muslims are good citizens and behave well. (personal experience)

Best Regards,

/Per

13 December 2017 14:06

<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2017/dec/13/labour-brexit-position-tories#comment-109657414>

Self-worth is an important emotion and motivating factor. Imagine you lost your arm and got a robotic arm as replacement. Now this arm has its own intelligence, an AI intelligence. So when you sit at the piano you can switch on self-playing mode, and the arm can play the piano without your help. Now does that feel the same as if you could play the piano yourself? Even though the robotic arm plays flawlessly.

The same with EU. If Britain can manage its own economy well, without the help of the EU, Britons will feel much more self-worth. Thus they will be happier.

Look at Russia. Sanctions. Same economic size as Italy. Yet the people there feel pride and are happy with their lives. Why do I know this? Because if you are unhappy, you will not support the leader of the country. You will vote in someone else. Pride matters.

Best Regards,
/Per

13 December 2017 12:51

<https://www.theguardian.com/environment/2017/dec/12/arctic-permafrost-sea-ice-thaw-climate-change-report#comments>

If the USA can manufacture millions of rifles with tax payer money, surely millions of carbon capture structures could be manufactured.

Best Regards,
/Per

13 December 2017 04:30

<https://www.theguardian.com/environment/2017/dec/12/arctic-permafrost-sea-ice-thaw-climate-change-report#comments>

Climate change is a reality more and more people understand after the Houston flooding.

There exist a technology that could literally save the world from climate change. This is an opportunity that is unique in world history.

The technology is called carbon capture from air. Google it.

The idea is to capture carbon dioxide in air (carbon dioxide is the culprit in global warming) and with solar photovoltaic energy convert that carbon dioxide into "blue crude" by an Audi sponsored process that uses water, carbon dioxide and electricity to make the fuel "crude blue" (from which you can derive Diesel fuel). The process is 70% efficient. Google it.

The fuel generated could be used as a carbon neutral fuel or be buried in the ground to reduce the carbon in the atmosphere net.

Best Regards,
/Per

13 December 2017 03:30

<https://www.theguardian.com/environment/2017/dec/12/arctic-permafrost-sea-ice-thaw-climate-change-report#comments>

I am just speculating on how God did die. Is the Flying Spaghetti Monster an overlord above God and us? Did they fight? Or did God get naughty and FSM decided to kill God?

So many questions. So few answers. ;-)

Best Regards,

/Per

13 December 2017 02:44

<https://www.theguardian.com/environment/2017/dec/12/arctic-permafrost-sea-ice-thaw-climate-change-report#comments>

Do you not have humour? At least Flying Spaghetti Monster is alive and well. Want proof? Google flyingspaghetti monster angola.

Best Regards,

/Per

13 December 2017 00:06

<https://www.theguardian.com/environment/2017/dec/12/arctic-permafrost-sea-ice-thaw-climate-change-report#comments>

Here are some interesting coincidences.

2015 is "TO" (twentieth letter in the alphabet and fifteenth). History of the world goes TO this point.

John 20:15 is the first time Jesus speaks after his death.

Revelation chapter 20 has 15 verses, with 20:15 being the most scary text of all in the Bible.

Mathews 5:13 speaks of salt losing its power. What does Jesus mean by salt? Probably faith, since this is the most central theme of his teachings. Thus he speaks of losing faith. 5:31 speaks of divorcing your wife, your life partner. Your life partner, true for all humans is this world we live in, thus divorcing this world, the end of the world. Now  $5*13*31=2015$ .

Strange coincidences, or is there some hidden meaning?

Since the world did not end 2015, GOD MUST BE DEAD. (As Nietzsche said)

Best Regards,

/Pe

12 December 2017 16:42

<https://www.theguardian.com/music/2017/dec/12/abba-nirvana-holograms-des-lynam>

Both Agnetha and Frida went on afterwards producing their own solo songs.

e.g.

youtube "I know there is something going on" for Frida and youtube "The heat is on agnetha faltskog" for Agnetha
Best Regards,
/Per

12 December 2017 14:03

<https://www.theguardian.com/music/2017/dec/12/abba-nirvana-holograms-des-lynam>

Thank you. Further, in my opinion, if you hear a song, and can immediately place it to its originator, even if you have not heard it before, and do not know for sure who made it, and there are no previous artists that they sound like, then they are unique artists.

Best Regards,

/Pe

12 December 2017 13:49

<https://www.theguardian.com/music/2017/dec/12/abba-nirvana-holograms-des-lynam>

Abba are artists, not merely artisans. Listen to the songs "I let the music speak" (check out the privately produced fan (by RJS) video on youtube too), "Slipping through my fingers", "Chiquitita". Do you understand the underlying lyrics?

Best Regards,

/Per

12 December 2017 12:41

<https://www.theguardian.com/music/2017/dec/12/abba-nirvana-holograms-des-lynam>

3 songs by Abba.

1. "Kisses of Fire". The best song by Abba in my opinion. I have seen a 60 year old beautiful woman shake her hips to this song.
2. "I have been waiting for you". If you want your partner excited for the night, play this song and say it expresses your feeling to him/her.
3. "Super Trouper". Sounds like Super True Per (my name).

Best Regards,

/Pe

12 December 2017 11:28

<https://www.theguardian.com/music/2017/dec/12/abba-nirvana-holograms-des-lynam>

Not so long ago I got the idea that this song was about the second coming. I know this interpretation will make Björn furious since he wrote the lyrics and he is an atheist.

To make him a bit more furious, I am going to quote the Bible.

"And he said, Abba, Father, all things are possible unto thee; take away this cup from me: nevertheless not what I will, but what thou wilt."

MARK. 14:36, KJV

Best Regards,

/Per

12 December 2017 02:29

<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2017/dec/11/forget-italian-pizza-twirling-britain-cultural-heritage#comments>

It is defined as follows: Intangible Cultural Heritage means the practices, representations, expressions, knowledge, skills – as well as the instruments, objects, artifacts and cultural spaces associated therewith – that communities, groups and, in some cases, individuals recognize as part of their cultural heritage

(s: wikipedia)

Best Regards,

/Pe

12 December 2017 02:14

<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2017/dec/11/forget-italian-pizza-twirling-britain-cultural-heritage#comments>

Oh now I understand you. You did not understand the article, and want some help. OK.

Here it is in simple speak.

Intangible cultural heritage is culture which you cannot touch, (you can touch some cultural heritage like the Museum of Natural History in London), which means behavioural patterns in culture, advanced speak "meme".

Then the article goes on suggesting cultural behaviour in England that was not on the Unesco list, and Nigel suggest behaviour at Pubs, Tea making, Pronunciation of place names, friendliness, shipping forecast and the increase of the price of rail travel.

You do not need to thank me.

Best Regards,

/Per

12 December 2017 01:56

<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2017/dec/11/forget-italian-pizza-twirling-britain-cultural-heritage#comments>

Did you understand my argument?
Best Regards,
/Pe

12 December 2017 01:42

<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2017/dec/11/forget-italian-pizza-twirling-britain-cultural-heritage#comments>

Eating food is not unique to England. Does that make it irrelevant to England?
Best Regards,
/Per

12 December 2017 01:11

<https://www.theguardian.com/science/2017/dec/11/astonomers-to-check-interstellar-body-for-signs-of-alien-technology#comments>

Reading the comments here I am wondering whether most of you are jesting or are "not having all the horses in the stable" so to speak.
How many here think that the moon landings c:a 50 years ago were fake? (Trump said monday that USA shall go to the moon again, by the way).
Best Regards,
/Per

12 December 2017 00:41

<https://www.theguardian.com/science/2017/dec/11/astonomers-to-check-interstellar-body-for-signs-of-alien-technology#comments>

Perhaps the object is there because of magic.
Best Regards,
/Per

12 December 2017 00:05

<https://www.theguardian.com/science/2017/dec/11/risk-of-fatal-motorcycle-crash-higher-under-a-full-moon-researchers-find#comments>

Riders increased risk of crash. Mental institutions going beserk. More difficult births. More violence on the streets. All linked to the full moon.

The reason is explained by evolutionary biology.

See my previous post of this explanation in my history of posts.

Best Regards,

/Per

11 December 2017 23:22

<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2017/dec/11/forget-italian-pizza-twirling-britain-cultural-heritage#comments>

Sexual harassment of women are part of the English intangible cultural heritage, (along with the rest of the world), whether you like it or not. Not only nice things are part of a cultural heritage.

Best Regards,

/Per

11 December 2017 21:21

<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2017/dec/11/forget-italian-pizza-twirling-britain-cultural-heritage#comments>

The facts are there, regardless how you feel about them.

Best Regards,

/Per

11 December 2017 20:43

<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2017/dec/11/forget-italian-pizza-twirling-britain-cultural-heritage#comments>

Imagine violence and sexual harassment to women. What to do?

The solution, described in part by Adam Smith, is considerate selfishness.

What is considerate selfishness? An oxymoron? No.

Imagine a birthday party for children. Bob is the strongest boy. A cake is presented. Bob takes half the cake. Now the other children are educated leftists. They know about the famous drawing of a big fish eating a school of small fish, and then the other drawing of a school of small fish organising themselves as looking as a joint big fish eating the big fish.

Thus they organise themselves and beat the strong Bob. Bob never forgot. Now he is considerate selfish, and at next birthday party he takes a normal slice of the cake.

Does this work in the woman's case of the story?

Yes.

You see, you are always watched by the divine.

See proof in my history of posts.

Best Regards,

/Per

11 December 2017 20:01

<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2017/dec/11/forget-italian-pizza-twirling-britain-cultural-heritage#comments>

Dear Sophia, (which means wisdom),

Regarding your point 1, do you not as all sane people do get a feeling where the wind is blowing, i.e. looking at the general opinion and mood of a group, before you make a statement?

Best Regards,

/Per

11 December 2017 17:54

<https://www.theguardian.com/business/live/2017/dec/11/bitcoin-price-futures-trading-begins-cryptocurrency-business-live#comments>

It is called hedging your bet. If you buy bitcoin, you want an insurance if the price of bitcoin falls before you sell.

e.g.

If you buy a bitcoin at $16000 you could buy short futures at $16000 that gives you a right to sell at $16000.

Best Regards,

/Per

11 December 2017 17:01

<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2017/dec/11/forget-italian-pizza-twirling-britain-cultural-heritage#comments>

It is difficult to make general stereotypes, but they can have a some truth in them. If you have seen "Life of Brian" by Monty Python, you know Brian said "We are all individuals."

#MeToo, was that all about "I am Brian, and so is my wife."

Best Regards,

/Per

11 December 2017 16:23

<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2017/dec/11/forget-italian-pizza-twirling-britain-cultural-heritage#comments>

From what I understand, from France, Jean Giraudoux.

Best Regards,

/Per

11 December 2017 15:59

<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2017/dec/11/forget-italian-pizza-twirling-britain-cultural-heritage#comments>

BBC radio 4, "The Archers" convey a lot of British culture.

The best quote from that radio program is,

"The most people want from an artist is sincerity, if you can fake that, you will make it."

Best Regards,

/Per

11 December 2017 15:38

<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2017/dec/11/forget-italian-pizza-twirling-britain-cultural-heritage#comments>

Some differences between the two cultures,

e.g.

1. A name means much more in English culture than Swedish, where we follow "jantelagen" (do not think you are someone special)
2. Who says something matters more than what is said, the reversal is true in Swedish culture.
3. Subtle and direct humour has more impact in English culture than Swedish.
4. Fooling someone is a deadly sin in Sweden, while a ruse is something more positive in England, as something smart and cunning.

Best Regards,

/Per

11 December 2017 14:52

<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2017/dec/11/forget-italian-pizza-twirling-britain-cultural-heritage#comments>

Swedish culture is a lot like English culture.

e.g.

1. We allow differences of opinion, and the expression of them, but in the end we all want consensus.
2. We feel embarrassed when someone else embarrasses themselves, rather than laughing at them as in some other cultures.
3. Bold statements are accepted as long as they are amusing, otherwise they will evoke embarrassment, or even anger.
4. Cooperation is central, everyone wants to be a good moral employee if the atmosphere is good.

Best Regards,

/Per

10 December 2017 01:43

<https://www.theguardian.com/science/2017/dec/10/super-rich-elites-inequality-origins-ancient-farming-mckie-anthropology-society#comments>

Do you believe in "free will"?

Imagine you got hold of the script for future events. There it said what you would do, say and think, all with timestamps. You read it, and decided to act against the script.

See, we got a free will.

Best Regards,

/Per

10 December 2017 01:20

<https://www.theguardian.com/music/2017/dec/10/kitty-empire-best-rock-pop-2017-jay-z-taylor-swift-kendrick-lamar-lorde>

On "Younger Now" by Miley Cyrus there is a song "Malibu", which tops the spotify list of Miley Cyrus with 253 m listenings. I even have this song in one of my playlists.

Anyone else have this song in their playlist? Tell me your username on spotify so that I can connect and tell me who you are.

Best Regards,

/Per

10 December 2017 00:40

<https://www.theguardian.com/lifeandstyle/2017/dec/10/new-carol-born-modern-composers-burg-eoning-christmas-industrty>

"Ave Maria in A Minor" is sung beautifully by Charlotte Church.

Best Regards,

/Per

9 December 2017 18:49

<https://www.theguardian.com/uk-news/2017/dec/09/north-west-derbies-go-global-manchester-united-city-liverpool-everton-football#comments>

There was an what appeared as an intellectual who tried to fight me, but I won in the end. He said I was "not even wrong".

Best Regards,

/Per

9 December 2017 18:18

<https://www.theguardian.com/uk-news/2017/dec/09/north-west-derbies-go-global-manchester-united-city-liverpool-everton-football#comments>

Did you know that in the Manchester derby they play for six points. Look at my history of comments for explanation.

Best Regards,

/Per

9 December 2017 17:22

<https://www.theguardian.com/us-news/2017/dec/09/santa-claus-indiana-gets-20000-letters-a-year-and-elves-reply-to-all-of-them#comments>

You ridicule flat earthers, but according to prominent physicists, the Earth is actually flat. Read my history of comments for explanation.

Best Regards,

/Per

9 December 2017 16:45

<https://www.theguardian.com/us-news/2017/dec/09/santa-claus-indiana-gets-20000-letters-a-year-and-elves-reply-to-all-of-them>

Santa Claus is a left wing socialist. He gives without asking for money. You might think Santa is only a myth, but Santa actually delivers. It was thought excitonium was only a myth (why do I have to read about this news in the Daily Mail, of cosmic importance - a new matter discovered and proved) but now the "P" in the diode "PN" junction is actually matter.

Best Regards,

/Per

8 December 2017 21:01

<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2017/dec/08/brexit-divorce-police-gwyneth-paltrow-conscious-uncoupling#comments>

Excellent as usual, Marina. By the way, where did John Crace's article (excellent too, published a few hours ago) about peace for our time go?

Best Regards,

/Per

8 December 2017 20:31

<https://www.theguardian.com/politics/2017/dec/08/may-returns-to-brussels-to-secure-peace-for-our-time#comments>

Quote J Crace, Peace for our time.

Reminds me of an excellent post I made about time machines (still in my history of posts).

Best Regards,

/Per

8 December 2017 19:49

<https://www.theguardian.com/politics/2017/dec/08/may-returns-to-brussels-to-secure-peace-for-our-time#comments>

Brexit has in fact strengthened. With the Irish/NI open border deal, Brexit acceptance in the public has increased. None likes to feel trapped in hard borders, now there is a breathing hole. Just wait and see.

Best Regards,

/Per

7 December 2017 17:18

<https://www.theguardian.com/australia-news/2017/dec/07/marriage-equality-law-passes-australia-parliament-in-landslide-vote>

Assume there is an optimal culture of wellbeing. Why should not this optimal culture apply to all?

Best Regards,

/Per

7 December 2017 10:51

<https://www.theguardian.com/australia-news/2017/dec/07/marriage-equality-law-passes-australia-parliament-in-landslide-vote>

If you read my history of posts, you may think I am contradictory. I am for a mono culture. A decent culture, regardless of race, religion, gender and sexual orientation. You see, all cultures are not equally worth. A Nazi culture is much less worth than a democratic one. A drug addiction culture is much less worth than a clean one. We need to unite behind a clean decent culture. Behaviour is everything.

Best Regards,

/Per

7 December 2017 10:10

<https://www.theguardian.com/australia-news/2017/dec/07/marriage-equality-law-passes-australia-parliament-in-landslide-vote#comment-109360142>

I agree. The following applies to race, religious affiliation, gender and sexual orientation. "Many blacks are with us, and many whites are against us."

Best Regards,

/Per